INTERPOLATION OF SIGNALS FROM A DELAY LINE

ABSTRACT

Method and apparatus for interpolation of signals from a delay line is described. An input signal is obtained from which progressively delayed input signals are generated from the input signal. Two of the progressively delayed input signals are accessed and interpolated to provide a phase-adjusted signal.